Hi Eri (& Francesca in cc),

I've finally wrapped up my work with the rationales. I've written down notes that hopefully will help you in the future, but here's a short summary summary for your convenience 😊

Bibliography

- Here's a link to the full bibliography list with notes. The Zotero library has 322 titles at the moment.
- There are 5 citations that I haven't been able to track down. These are:
 - Evans, Nicholas. 2013.
 - Helliwell, Christine. 1992.
 - Managhan. 2017.
 - Murdock et al. 1945.
 - Stanford & Yang. 2018.
- We have listed references either in Zotero or the Rationales website (or both) which we haven't cited. I have listed these too, since I wasn't sure if these refer to materials that should have been cited or were supposed to be cited somewhere in the future. A special case here are references listed by Kayleigh (T-set rationales), which she does not cite, but lists as references. I'm leaving it up to you to decide how to treat these.
- There are also some cases where we have multiple candidates for one citation, e.g., there are 3 possible candidates for Trudgill 2020. I'm not sure which one we are referring to, so I've written down information for all possible candidates 😊

Rationales

- I went through all the rationales and checked which ones still need work. Here's a link to my notes.
- I've done a general spell-check and other editing fixes here and there. Citations are formatted according to Generic Style Rules.
- There's about a dozen sections that need major work, mostly adding theoretical and empirical support.
- There are multiple sections that need minor fixes, e.g. adding citations, or adding examples.

That should be everything!
